- Defining roles and responsibilities for occupational health and safety;
- Involving our personnel, including subcontractors, in the decision-making processes through regular communication, consultation and training;
- Training workers to provide information, create understanding, shape attitudes and behaviours to achieve a positive safety culture;
- Identifying, evaluating and managing hazards and risks to an acceptable level;
- Monitoring, reviewing and evaluating the effectiveness of the processes and measures implemented, with a view to understanding and improving performance and identifying opportunities for improvement;
- Using of safe working systems supported by documented safe working procedures and only using materials that are safe and do not pose a risk to the environment;
- Reporting of all incidents, however minor, to management so that appropriate action can be undertaken to eliminate a repetition or to minimise the risk;
- Striving to continuously improve our systems and practices through a process of auditing, review and revision of work health and safety objectives and targets.

The Health and Safety Policy receives the highest priority from the senior managers of the organisation and this priority is communicated to all personnel connected with the company. People are our most important asset and their health and safety is our greatest responsibility. All personnel have a responsibility for their own safety and that of other people around them. We encourage people to proactively accept this responsibility.

Our Organisation will take all steps necessary to ensure that its activities do not compromise this commitment. We promote Safety first, this is the Archos way.
